

SCOS and ORCHID DIGEST awards found in South Coast Orchid Society Newsletters, February, 1958-1968, and in ORCHID DIGEST 1954-1968.

Preliminary transcript by John McCoy, from the "orchid archive" collection of The Huntington. In some years, there was probably no judging in January, because the meeting was held at another location (such as the Petroleum Club) for the annual banquet and installation of officers.

Judging under the auspices of Orchid Digest Corporation was terminated at the end of 1967, and judging resumed under American Orchid Society standards in January, 1968.

The awards published in the SCOS newsletters that have been recovered so far were usually identified with a serial number. It is possible that another group of serial numbers (in parentheses, below, as published in ORCHID DIGEST) are those for all ORCHID DIGEST awards across all judging sites. The serial numbers published in the SCOS newsletter, pertaining only the SCOS judging site, end in December, 1967 with number 528. Additional awards, lacking serial numbers and sometimes other details, have been gleaned from ORCHID DIGEST, in the summaries of the meetings of affiliated societies, and, beginning in 1957, in the summaries of judging results at affiliated societies. The meeting summaries show that judging began at SCOS in December, 1954, following a decision by the membership two months earlier.

If a complete list of the awards from the Orchid Digest Corporation judging program has survived, no one seems to know where it is. For the Long Beach site, of series of 528 awards (plus 4 additional awards noted but apparently not part of the numbered sequence), we have found the names of 452 of them, thus accounting for 85% of the awards conferred.
